

Why should anyone torch Parliament?

What we want are hearts that burn ardently,

Speaking to what is Just and Wise,

So that law-book pages catch fire!

The flames that romped through Parliament

Back in 1916, that charred Senate and Commons,

Were actually, ironically, powerless, because

Truth outlasts paper, wood, and even fragile flesh.

© George Elliott Clarke
Parliamentary Poet Laureate